

Student Guide

Hello Students!

We are very excited for you to visit the Leonardo Museum! The museum is named after Leonardo da Vinci, a great artist, engineer, scientist, architect, musician, and humanitarian. Our mission is to fuse science, technology, and art into experiences that inspire creativity and innovation in students like you, just like Leonardo da Vinci did for the world.

Museum Rules and Expectations

Be Safe

- Please walk as our cement floors can be slippery. To keep everyone safe, no running, jumping or climbing is allowed in the building.
- There is a slide that takes you out of our large plane. It is a steep drop so please be sure only one person goes down at a time and that you go down feet first.
- The escalators in the museum are 60 years old! Please make sure to use them correctly as they are not toys or rides.

Be Respectful

- Please use inside voices when inside the museum. We have a private exhibit that plays music and it is very disruptive to other guests if you are running and shouting.
- There are many hands-on exhibits within the museum so please share and take turns with each other and other guests.

Have Fun!

- We are very excited to have you at our museum and want to make this the best experience we can. If you are in need of any assistance during your visit, please find one of our team members. We are happy to help!

Best,

The Leonardo Education Team
